LETTER

To whom it may concern:

As the mother of the 10-year-old child who attended the Dianne Davidson concert on November 17 I read with some distress the Steering Committee's comments printed on page 2 of the January newsletter.

Implicit in the above was an inconsiderate, and even pushy, effort on my part to "prevail" despite allegedly well-known policies prohibiting under-21-year-olds from attending SACWN sponsored events. While I did, and do, assume responsibility for what, in retrospect, turns out to have represented a regrettable, and perhaps even insensitive, violation of policy, in my defense I would like to say that I was completely unaware of SACWN's policy at the time. This unawareness was shared by Rosanna, who kindly allowed Jenny to attend when she learned of our last-minute, unanticipated child-care difficulties.

It's simply isn't true, as was stated, that I "challenged" SACWN policy. There was furthermore no intent to bring discomfort, or anger, to any fellow Sacwnites, and I apologize for any embarrassment or inconvenience that may have been caused.

Sincerely,
Pamela Martell SACWN mother

WANTED:

Audit of SACWN Fiscal Records

Each year SACWN is required to conduct an audit of our fiscal records. The Steering Committee is seeking a qualified person to conduct two audits: one in March or April 1990 for the 88/89 fiscal year, and one in August 1990 for the 89/90 fiscal year.

The individual must demonstrate appropriate abilities and credentials for conducting audits such as a CPA or EA.

Please submit bids and qualifications to SACWN, INC. P.O. Box 661332, Sacramento, CA 95866. If you have questions please contact Jesse McGuinn at 363-5426 (evenings). This job will be awarded to the most qualified bidder submitting the most reasonable bid.

RELATIONSHIPS

Relationships. We talk about relationships. We dream relationships. We live and breathe relationships. We watch relationships come alive, die, be reborn. We wonder, and question and watch. We work hard at some and run from others. Lesbians are relationship experts. And yet, according to some writers, professionals and watchers of our relationships, Lesbians are dismal failures at establishing and maintaining the kinds of relationships we hold in ideal.

Women who write about Lesbian relationships suggest that we need to create a new language for our relationships and our sexuality. The new language, suggest women like Joanne Loulan, Sonia Johnson and Sarah Hoagland, must come from our ongoing dialogue and a constant evaluation of the kinds of words we use (and their attendant connotations) to create, nurture and end relationships. The language we use in our lives, say these women, is the language of the heterosexual community; defining, explaining, describing relationships within a context of heterosexuality, straight culture, man/woman terms.

Some writers have suggested that our relationships never really end, that we make great efforts to salvage the damaged relationships, that we have explored the limits and extensions of our relationships like no other community. Out of introspection and recognition of our own needs to acknowledge and validate the strengths of former relationships, we find the remnants that we value and rebuild relationships, creating new, complicated, sometimes confusing mixes of old, new, redefined, rebuilt, lost, and fragmented relationships within the community.

We may indeed be relationship experts. And we may need only to look toward ourselves for the "expert" intuition and knowledge we seek in discovering exciting nuances about our relationships or how to heal the wound or how to salvage the remnants of a battered relationship.

What kinds of relationships do we have? What are the elements we seek in our relationships? . . . Among friends? . . . Among lovers? Is it that we see ourselves in our lovers and friends and we do what we can to nurture that self in others? And are we fascinated or appalled by our differences and explore or shrink far from intimacy when confronted by the differences?

This will be a new and regular column in the SACWN news. In future issues you will find interviews and discussions with all kinds of women in our community about relationships — not about specific relationships, but about the kinds of relationships we have, what we look for, what we want and the direction we are going. The writer welcomes letters, suggestions, ideas. If you would like to participate in this column, please let me know. Letters to the editor are welcome and will be printed. We want to know. Lesbians and our relationships. Let us begin a dialogue.

Women's Self-Defense Class Forming

An increase in the incidence of attacks on Lesbians has triggered the formation of a local women's self-defense and personal safety class instructed by Midge Marino.

Marino, a self-defense instructor at CSU Sacramento, holds a second degree black belt in Judo.

The three- to four-hour training emphasizes the importance of psychological preparation, the use of logic, control and anger as a positive force, plus verbal and physical skills necessary to stop victimization.

The training defines laws, dispels myths, and identifies the assailant and his game plan. It also examines sex role socialization and how it affects our attitudes, behavior and responses.

"Hands on" instruction focuses on the body's vital points, blows and kicks, chokes and body releases, ground defense and "your five weapons."

Participation is limited to 40 women with cost ranging between $15 to $20 depending on the number in the class. To sign up for a class in March, contact Judy Ludwick at 429-2806.

Lesbian Mothers Needed For Study

Sharon Lindenfeld, a graduate student in the School of Social Work at California State University, Sacramento, is working on her Master thesis on Lesbian Mothers and Custody Fears. Many Lesbian mothers are now engaged in or will be engaged in court cases to gain or regain custody of their children. She notes these women are in dire need of support from many levels. Her hope for the thesis is that it will enlighten mental health workers, lawyers and judges in seeing that a woman's sexual preference has nothing to do with the quality of her mothering.

Her population of subjects can include any woman who considers herself to be a lesbian who is raising or has raised a child whether or not they are now living together. Women interested in participating may contact Lindenfeld at P.O. Box 804, Rocklin, CA 95677. or call collect: 927-5146. All replies will be held strictly confidential.

Corporate CoordinatorMembership Policies

The Steering Committee started the year off with lots of business on the agenda. First, we heard concerns from two subscribers about the long-standing policies restricting membership to lesbians over 21. We recently surveyed subscribers on such issues as whether men or other non-lesbians should be included at events, and last month we heard from several subscribers upset that men were invited to the holiday event. Obviously, this is an issue of concern to a lot of subscribers, and you'll be hearing more from the Board as we collate and analyze the hundreds of written comments given in the survey questionnaires.

The Committee also finalized the job description and duties of the new Volunteer Coordinator. Then the first draft of the first 6 months of the Administrative Calendar was presented and all were asked to contribute items from their area of responsibility which should be included in the final draft of this year-round planning document. We also looked at items left over from the November Retreat and timelines to complete them, and voted some necessary budget changes in the January and February event budgets.

Interview dates were set for individuals interested in serving as Program Coordinator, and hopefully we'll have new energy and talent for you soon in that position. We also decided to put out to bid among subscribers our need for audits of the recently completed 1988-89 fiscal year and next year's 1989-90 time period.

Special Events Coordinator Jane Randall announced a new location for the Valentine's Dance which promises to be plenty roomy — with plenty of dance floor! We are looking forward to that.

Finally, we learned from Marketing that our new subscriber brochures should be available by the next event at the HUB. Check there if you want to get some to pass on to friends or clients, or call Linda Ragnetti if you need a supply.

That's all for now . . . let us hear from you if you have ideas or concerns on anything happening with SACWN.

Networking CommitteeHubba Valentine's Day!

In this month of HUBS and flowers, expressions and connections, we'd like to tell you a little bit about the HUB. Webster's dictionary defines HUB as the central part of a wheel or a center of activity. Our neon sign, displayed at our tables during programs, represents the first part of the definition. It serves as a beacon to signal our expression or the second part of the definition. We endeavor to provide a place at each monthly meeting where information regarding the activities of the lesbian community can be made available.

Material at the HUB may include SACWN related information such as newsletters, fliers, marketing information, constitution, by-laws, committee descriptions, sign-ups for Special Interest Groups, sign-ups for volunteering and ride-sharing, Directories for purchase, and our Resource Book containing business cards of members. Community-related material may include local gay and lesbian newspapers, and fliers of local and regional gay and lesbian events.

The HUB is usually peopled by one or two members during the social hour and for at least half of the time length of the event. These volunteers are there to provide information, answer questions, sell Directories, and say hello! We want the HUB to be helpful to you, so please let us know how we're doing. Drop us a note in the SACWN Suggestion Box, also located at the HUB. C U there!

Program CommitteeNew Program Coordinator Soon

As we go to print this month, there are two people who have expressed an interest in being the SACWN Program Coordinator. The SACWN Board will interview the candidates and choose the best person for this important position. A special "thank-you" to these two women who answered the call for leadership in this area. In the next newsletter you will learn more about the new Program Coordinator.

I'm excited to have a new person on the SACWN Steering Committee Team. Spending the last 3 months doing both jobs has shown me how much work there is to do for this position. SACWN continues to provide quality programs because of all the hours put back in by volunteers. If you feel it's time to give something back to SACWN, call the SACWN Volunteer Coordinator Sally Rydell at 363-5426 and volunteer a few hours.

I hope to see you at the February Dance. It promises to be a night of fun and romance!

Rosanna Herber
Steering Committee Coordinator

SEGMENTS

☛ Twelve California lesbian/gay elected government officials have announced the formation of the California Association of Lesbian and Gay Elected Government Officials. CAL/G EGO is an offshoot of the National Organization of Lesbian and Gay Elected and Appointed Officials whose efforts offer a national forum of political strategy and discourse concerning the gay community. CAL/G EGO's co-chair San Mateo County Supervisor Tom Nolan feels that the California chapter will serve a significant purpose in supporting local and state-wide initiatives and candidates.

CAL/G EGO's plans include a state-wide conference in 1990 to address the legislative needs of state and local regions, and to establish an on-going strategy for identifying significant candidates and initiatives.

The 12-member board includes Robla School District Trustee Gary Miller.

☛ Federal employees can support the ground-breaking work of the NOW Legal Defense and Education Fund through contributions on your Combined Federal Campaign this year. Enter the fund's I.D. number on your CFC pledge card. To contact the Fund, call 212/925-6635, or write NOW LDEF, 99 Hudson Street, New York, New York 10013.

☛ A lesbian in January lost a lawsuit seeking joint custody and visitation rights to a girl born to a former lover through artificial insemination with sperm from the plaintiff's brother. A Los Angeles Superior Court Judge ruled against Terri

Sabol, 33, who sought to gain parental rights and even wished to pay child support.

"We are filing a notice of appeal" said attorney Gloria Allred. "We believe that persons who are gay and lesbian have the right to be parents."

Sabol and her "life partner" decided in 1985 they wanted a child. Part of the decision was that the other woman would carry the baby because Sabol "was in a better position to be the breadwinner," Allred said.

Sabol's brother, Steve, donated sperm for the artificial insemination procedure, which was performed by Sabol.

The other woman became pregnant in April 1986 and a girl was born on Dec. 16, 1986. The child's parentage made Sabol the girl's aunt.

☛ "A Call To Action! The March for Women's Equality/Women's Lives," a 30-minute video tape is available for $19.95 plus $2.00 shipping and handling per tape. The video captures the power, excitement and massiveness of the April 9, 1989 March for Women's Equality/Women's Lives, the largest March in women's rights history. Produced for the National Organization for Women, the chief organizer of the March, the tape reveals the plans and details of NOW's Emergency Campaign to keep abortion legal launched by the March. Tapes can be ordered from the March for Women's Equality/Women's Lives, NOW, P.O. Box 7813, Washington, D.C. 20044.

☛ The Campaign To End Homophobia, based in Massachusetts, is working to create change in society which would allow people to be free of oppression on the basis of ethnicity, sex, sexual orientation, class, disabilities, or religion.

The group's steering committee, which is composed of women and men and people of color, has announced its Third Annual Conference on Anti-Homophobia Education. The conference will be held from June 22-25 in Seattle, Washington.

Campaign projects include two pamphlets for young people: "I think I might be a lesbian . . . now what do I do?" and "I think I might be gay . . . now what do I do?" (for young men). Ongoing projects include the development of additional pamphlets, such as "What Causes Homophobia?" and "Working with Homophobic Young People," and the development of a guide for leading introductory workshops on heterosexism and homophobia. In addition, the campaign newsletter, Empathy, has been expanded to journal format.

Contributions may be made and more information can be obtained by contacting The Campaign To End Homophobia, P.O. Box 819, Cambridge, MA 02139 at 617/868-8280.

SINGLES ONLY

Hello! Any singles out there? Sometimes it seems that everyone in the community is coupled except me and this is one of those times. Since mid-December, when I took over as coordinator, not one person has called to find out what's happening. Singles, I know you're out there because everyone once in a while I get lucky and get a date. Mark February 16th in your little black book for a meeting in my home. This meeting will cover forming a committee to run the group and to plan future events. For more information, call Cheryl, 452-1687.

ACA OR DYSFUNCTIONAL FAMILIES

February is heart month. The step study group will have heart to heart discussions on the ACA's favorite pastime: stuffing feelings. Then, after we have intellectualized, scrutinized, and compartmentalized the subject, let's let go of the learned need to stuff feelings and come from the heart in order to feel a few February feelings. The meeting dates are Feb. 8 and Feb. 22, from 7:30 to 9:00 p.m. Call Sharon, 454-6052.

OUTDOOR RECREATION

Call Ellen, 441-7962.

The book group meets at 3 p.m. the third Sunday of every month. During this month's meeting we will select the books for the next quarter, so join us and bring your ideas. RELATIONSHIP ADDICTION

Some of us now realize that our focusing on a relationship as the main reason for living is not exactly healthy. We have a support group that meets on Thursday nights. Call Judie, 973-1141.

CULTURE CLUB

The small band of weary but happy revelers sat eating mocha cheesecake and drinking latte, all while realizing the adventures of the evening. "What's next," they ask. "A concert," said one! "The play is the thing," claimed another. "A trip to the City, the possibilities are endless," put in one more! They all smiled. Join us and explore the possibilities. The Culture Club. Ann, 383-9257.

DANCE

The dance group has completed one series of ballroom and country/western lessons and there has not been sufficient interest in beginning another series of them. Therefore, the group is being discontinued until further interest develops.
